LIVES TAKEN EVERYDAY

Every day there are people getting killed who don't understand how this impacts teenagers and kids. Seeing people die at a young age leaves the kids traumatized. Having a gun does not mean it is given a right give to pull the trigger on who they feel like. Nearly 2,000 children and teens are shot and killed and nearly 15,600 are shot and injured.

With the mass shootings going on, kids no longer feel safe. Being apart this community means coming together and keeping everyone safe. USA Today stated in an article about school shooting, "Let them know: They can save somebody's life, a lot of lives. Let them know that if they see something, they can let the parent take over," she said. "The parents can call the school, the authorities, somebody who can help."
